

The AACE International – Delaware Valley & New Jersey Sections Present:

“Industrial Drone Solutions – The Productive Eye in the Sky”

Mark your calendars now for February 10, 2016

Nathan Ernst and Nick Cantagallo represent an industrial drone solutions company - Sky Scape Industries. Sky Scape is a federally-authorized drone company that provides aerial surveying solutions in the construction development sector. These services include topographical mapping, volumetric analysis, infrared scanning, inspection, and data analysis. Nathan comes from a financial analytic background while Nick has a background in electrical engineering. Together, the two have developed a company that provides drone services to companies such as residential and commercial developers, engineers, architects, and power-infrastructure companies. Sky Scape is authorized by the Federal Aviation Administration for Commercial Drone Operations, is a member of the Association for Unmanned Vehicle System International (AUVSI), and has worked with companies throughout the eastern United States.
